

MNG7 Inclement Weather and Closing

When inclement weather occurs during the time that the library buildings are open, it will be the decision of the library manager and the library director as to the appropriateness of closing. If road conditions, because of ice, rain, or other extreme weather make driving hazardous, the library may stay open until conditions improve so that staff is not at risk while traveling home. If there is sufficient warning of inclement weather, the libraries may close in order to allow both staff and library users to safely travel home.
